CASE NO. 10cv0997 - IEG (CAB)

ORDER:

(1) PRELIMINARILY
CERTIFYING CLASSES FOR SETTLEMENT PURPOSES;

(2) APPOINTING CLASS
REPRESENTATIVE;

(3) PRELIMINARILY
APPROVING SETTLEMENT;

(4) APPOINTING CLASS
COUNSEL;

(5) APPROVING CLASS NOTICE;

(6) SETTING A FINAL APPROVAL HEARING FOR
MARCH 26, 2012

[Doc. No. 54]

21
22 Presently before the Court is Plaintiff Brooke Gardner (“Plaintiff”)’s unopposed motion for 23 preliminary approval of a class settlement. [Doc. No. 54.] For the reasons set forth below, the 24 Court GRANTS Plaintiff’s Motion.

25 BACKGROUND

26 I. Facts

27 This is a wage and hour class action case. Defendant GC Services, LP (“GC Services”)
28 provides telephone-based customer services and collections services to various companies

1 throughout the United States. [Doc. No. 15, Answer ¶ 1.] GC Services operates three call centers
 2 in California, including one in San Diego. [Id.] GC Services' telephone workers are generally
 3 referred to as account representatives, although their job titles vary. [Doc. No. 26-3, Deposition of 4 Sharon Webb ("Webb Depo.") Exs. 5-9.] GC Services pays its account representatives by the 5 hour and classifies them as "non-exempt" employees who are entitled to overtime compensation.
 6 [Id.; Doc. No. 1, Compl. ¶ 8.] The account representatives are typically scheduled to work at least
 7 40 hours per week. [Doc. No. 26-2, Declaration of Brooke Gardner ("Gardner Decl.") ¶ 2.]

8 Named Plaintiff Brooke Gardner previously worked as an account representative at GC
 9 Services' call center in San Diego. [Id.] Plaintiff alleges that account representatives were 10 required to perform certain "pre-shift" work on a daily basis (logging into the computer system, 11 various software programs, and the telephone system); that the account representatives were 12 uncompensated for the "pre-shift" work; and that if they failed to complete it, they were subject to 13 discipline. [Compl. ¶¶ 10-11, 15-16.] Plaintiff also alleges that account representatives were 14 required to work off the clock during meal periods and during "post-shift" periods. [Id. ¶¶ 13-16.]

15 II. Procedural History

16 On March 24, 2010, Plaintiff filed a putative class action against GC Services in state 17 superior court alleging causes of action for (1) failure to pay straight-time wages in violation of 18 California Labor Code § 218; (2) failure to pay overtime wages in violation of 8 C.C.R. § 11040
 19 and California Labor Code §§ 510 and 1198; (3) failure to pay compensation due at termination in 20 violation of California Labor Code §§ 201-03; (4) violation of California Business and Professions
 21 Code §§ 17200, et seq.; and (5) quantum meruit. [Doc. No. 1, Compl.] On May 10, 2010, GC
 22 Services removed the action to this Court pursuant to the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005, 28
 23 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2). [Doc. No. 1, Notice of Removal.]

24 Because of a related action in the Eastern District of Missouri, GC Services filed a motion
 25 to dismiss, transfer, or stay the case pending resolution of the related action. [Doc. No. 2.] Shortly
 26 thereafter, Plaintiff filed a motion to remand the action back to state court. [Doc. No. 4.] On July 27 6, 2010, the Court denied GC Services' motion to dismiss and also denied Plaintiff's motion to 28

1 remand to state court. Thereafter, GC Services filed an answer. [Doc. No. 15.] On December 3, 2 2010, Plaintiff filed a motion for class certification. [Doc. No. 26.] GC Services opposed the 3 motion. [Doc. No. 32.]

4 After significant discovery, on February 1, 2011 and February 2, 2011, the parties engaged
5 in a mediation session with experienced mediator Joan S. Morrow. [Doc. No. 54-2, Declaration of 6 Jason M. Lindner (“Lindner Decl.”) ¶ 2.] Although the parties did not reach an agreement at the 7 mediation, the parties continued to have settlement discussions and conducted data analysis that 8 eventually resulted in an agreement to settle the action on May 19, 2011. [Id. ¶ 3.] The Court
9 dismissed Plaintiff’s motion for class certification without prejudice after the parties notified the 10 Court that the case had settled. [Doc. Nos. 49, 51.] The parties drafted a Joint Stipulation of 11 Settlement, [Doc. No. 54-2, Linder Decl. Ex. A (“Class Settlement”)], and now submit that 12 agreement to this Court for preliminary approval. [Doc. No. 54.]

13 III. The Settlement

14 Pursuant to the proposed settlement, CG Services has agreed to pay $975,000 as the total
15 settlement fund, without admitting liability, and to deposit the funds with a settlement
16 administrator following final approval. [Class Settlement §§ 2.22, 6.2.1, 7.4.1.] The settlement 17 fund equals the entire amount to be paid to the class, including attorneys’ fees (not to exceed 18 $292,000–30% of the total settlement fund), expert fees, costs (not to exceed $20,000), and an 19 incentive award to the named Plaintiff Brooke Gardner (not to exceed $3,000), but excluding
20 employment taxes. [Id. § 2.22, 6.3, 6.4.]

21 The class consists of all current and former “non-exempt” (i.e., overtime eligible)
22 telephone-dedicated call center representatives who work or worked for GC Services at locations
23 in California at any time between March 24, 2006 and June 15, 2011. [Id. § 2.5.] The parties
24 estimate that the size of the putative class is approximately 1,524 individuals. [Id.]

25 Class members who want to opt-out have the obligation to notify the settlement
26 administrator within 45 days after the initial mailing of the class notice. [Class Settlement §
27 7.2.7.] Every class member that does not opt-out from this settlement and submits a claim form
28

1 within sixty days will receive a cash payment from the settlement fund. [Id. § 7.4.2.] The amount
 2 of payment received will be calculated by determining the pro rata share of the funds based on 3 each class member's amount of weeks worked within the relevant time period, but the amount for 4 each class member will be no less than $50. [Id. § 6.7.2.] In addition, the settlement agreement 5 provides that if the amount claimed does not equal at least 50% of the settlement pool, the 6 payments to qualified class members will be reapportioned so that at least 50% of the settlement
 7 pool is paid to the class members. [Id. § 6.7.2(d).] Unclaimed funds above the 50% minimum will 8 revert back to GC Services. [Id.]

9 In exchange, GC Services will receive a release from the class members of all wage and 10 hour claims asserted in this action along with any wage and hour claims that could have been 11 asserted. [Id. §§ 2.28, 6.8.1-6.8.4.] This release extends only to class members who do not opt-
 12 out of the class. [Id. §§ 2.32, 6.8.1-6.8.4.]

13 DISCUSSION

14 When the parties reach a settlement agreement prior to class certification, the court is under 15 an obligation to “peruse the proposed compromise to ratify both the propriety of the certification 16 and the fairness of the settlement.” Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 952 (9th Cir. 2003).
 17 Thus, the court must first assess whether a class exists, and second, determine whether the 18 proposed settlement is ““fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable.”” Id. (citations omitted).
 19 Accordingly, in the present case, the Court will first examine the propriety of class certification,
 20 followed by the fairness of the settlement agreement, and will then address the questions of class
 21 counsel and class notice.

22 I. Class Certification

23 A plaintiff seeking a Rule 23(b)(3) class certification must first satisfy the prerequisites of 24 Rule 23(a). Once subsection (a) is satisfied, the purported class must then fulfill the requirements
 25 of Rule 23(b)(3). In the present case, Plaintiff seeks to certify the following class:

26 [A]ll current and former non-exempt (i.e., overtime eligible) telephone-dedicated 27 representatives who work or worked for Defendant, its parents, subsidiaries, 28 affiliates, predecessors or assigns at locations in California at any time between

1 March 24, 2006 and June 15, 2011 (“Class Period”), estimated at approximately 2 1524 but to include up to 1600 individuals.

3 [Class Settlement § 2.5.]

4 A. Rule 23(a) requirements

5 Rule 23(a) establishes four prerequisites for class action litigation: (1) numerosity, (2)
6 commonality, (3) typicality, and (4) adequacy of representation. FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a); see also 7 Staton, 327 F.3d at 953. The Court will examine each of these requirements in turn.

8 1. Numerosity

9 The numerosity prerequisite is met if “the class is so numerous that joinder of all members
10 is impracticable.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(1). In the present case, the parties estimate that there are 11 approximately 1,524 members of the proposed class. [Class Settlement § 2.5.] They are far too 12 numerous to be joined as plaintiffs in this lawsuit. Accordingly, the numerosity requirement is 13 met in this case.

14 2. Commonality

15 The commonality requirement is met if “there are questions of law or fact common to the 16 class.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(2). The commonality requirement is construed “permissively.”
17 Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 1998). All questions of fact and law need 18 not be common, but rather “[t]he existence of shared legal issues with divergent factual predicates 19 is sufficient, as is a common core of salient facts coupled with disparate legal remedies within the 20 class.” Id. In the present case, there are many questions of fact and law that are common to class;
21 specifically, whether GC Services’ alleged policy of requiring account representative to perform
22 pre-shift, post-shift, and meal-period work without compensation violated California labor laws.
23 [See Compl. ¶¶ 21, 27-52.] Accordingly, the commonality requirement is met.

24 3. Typicality

25 Typicality requires that “the claims or defenses of the representative parties [be] typical of 26 the claims or defenses of the class.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(3). The representative claims are 27 “typical” if they are “reasonably co-extensive with those of absent class members,” though they 28 “need not be substantially identical.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020. Typicality requires that the

1 named plaintiffs of the class “‘possess the same interest and suffer the same injury’ as the class
 2 members.” Gen. Tel. Co. of the Southwest v. Falcon, 457 U.S. 147, 156 (1982). In the present
 3 case, both the named plaintiff and the purported class members worked for GC Services as account
 4 representatives and were injured by GC Services’ allegedly improper wage and hour practices.
 5 [Compl. ¶¶ 10-16; Doc. No. 26-2, Gardner Decl. ¶¶ 2-7.] Accordingly, because Plaintiff’s claims
 6 are reasonably co-extensive with the claims of the absent class members, the typicality
 7 requirement is met in this case.

8 4. Adequacy of representation

9 Finally, Rule 23(a) also requires that the class representative be able to “fairly and 10 adequately protect the interests of the class.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(4). Representation is adequate 11 if the plaintiff: (1) “do[es] not have conflicts of interest with the proposed class” and (2) is 12 “represented by qualified and competent counsel.” Dukes v. Wal-Mart, Inc., 509 F.3d 1168, 1185
 13 (9th Cir. 2007). At the heart of this requirement is the “concern over settlement allocation 14 decisions.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

15 In the present case, there appears to be no conflict of interest between Plaintiff and the 16 proposed class, and Plaintiff’s counsel is qualified and competent. First, Plaintiff has pursued the 17 interests of the class by engaging in investigation and discovery, attending a deposition, and 18 assisting counsel with other aspects of the case. [Doc. No. 54-2, Lindner Decl. ¶ 5.] Moreover,
 19 the $3,000 enhancement award to Plaintiff appears to be reasonable in light of her efforts in this 20 litigation. Second, Plaintiff’s counsel has extensive experience acting as class counsel in complex
 21 class actions cases including wage and hour class actions. [See Doc. No. 26-3, Declaration of Eric
 22 Lindner (“Lindner Decl.”) Ex. J; Doc. No. 26-5, Declaration of Mark Potashnick (“Potashnick 23 Decl.”) ¶¶ 4-8, Ex. A; Doc. No. 57, Declaration of J. Farrest Taylor (“Taylor Decl.”) ¶¶ 2-4, Exs.
 24 A-B; Doc. No. 58, Declaration of G. Patrick Jacobs (“Jacobs Decl.”) ¶¶ 1-11.] Accordingly, the 25 adequacy of representation requirement is met in this case, and Plaintiff Brooke Gardner is 26 appointed as class representative.

27 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff has satisfied the prerequisites of Rule 23(a).
 28

1            B.      Rule 23(b)(3) requirements

2            In the present case, Plaintiff proposes certification pursuant to Rule 23(b)(3). [Doc. No.
3 54-1 at 11-13.] Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3) requires the court to find that: (1) “the 4 questions of law or fact common to class members predominate over any questions affecting only 5 individual members,” and (2) “a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and 6 efficiently adjudicating the controversy.” These requirements are called the “predominance” and 7 “superiority” requirements. See Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1022-23.

8            I.      Predominance

9            The predominance inquiry tests “whether proposed classes are sufficiently cohesive to 10 warrant adjudication by representation.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1022 (quoting Amchem Products, 11 Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 623 (1997)). This analysis requires more than proof of common 12 issues of law or fact. Id. Rather, the common questions should “present a significant aspect of 13 the case and . . . be resolved for all members of the class in a single adjudication.” Id. (citation 14 omitted).

15            “When the claim is that an employer’s policy and practices violated labor law, the key 16 question for class certification is whether there is a consistent employer practice that could be a 17 basis for consistent liability.” Kamar v. Radio Shack Corp., 254 F.R.D. 387, 399 (C.D. Cal. 2008).
18 Class certification is usually appropriate where “liability turns on an employer’s uniform policy 19 that is uniformly implemented, since in that situation predominance is easily established.” Id. In 20 similar cases, common claims were found to predominate where a company-wide policy governed
21 how employees spent their time and/or how they were paid. See, e.g., Wright v. Linkus
22 Enterprises, Inc., 259 F.R.D. 468, 473 (E.D. Cal. 2009) (finding predominance, despite minor 23 factual difference between individual class members, where the case involved “alleged policies 24 that required class members to work without compensation, meal and rest periods, and/or 25 reimbursement for expenses”); In re Wells Fargo Home Mortg. Overtime Pay Litig., 527 F. Supp.
26 2d 1053, 1065-68 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (finding predominance where, as a general matter, the 27
28

1 defendant's policy and practice regarding compensation and exemption was uniform for all
2 putative class members).

3 In the present case, the claims stem from GC Services' alleged uniform policy of requiring 4 account representative to perform certain pre-shift, post-shift, and lunch time tasks without 5 compensation. [Compl. ¶¶ 9-16.] Therefore, common factual and legal issues predominate the 6 action. See Wright, 259 F.R.D. at 473; Wells Fargo, 527 F. Supp. 2d at 1065-68.

7 2. Superiority

8 The superiority inquiry requires determination of "whether objectives of the particular 9 class action procedure will be achieved in the particular case." Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1023 (citation 10 omitted). Notably, the class-action method is considered to be superior if "classwide litigation of 11 common issues will reduce litigation costs and promote greater efficiency." Valentino v. Carter-
12 Wallace, Inc., 97 F.3d 1227, 1234 (9th Cir. 1996) (citation omitted). Here, there is no evidence
13 that class members would have an interest in individual control of their cases. To the contrary, 14 class action litigation in employment cases relax any concerns that current employees might have 15 about retaliation from their employers if they were to bring suit individually. See Bibo v. Fed.
16 Express, Inc., 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 37597, at *26 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 21, 2009). In addition,
17 classwide treatment of the issues will be efficient in this case because the class members'
18 individual claims appear to be relatively small. Accordingly, a class action constitutes a superior 19 method of adjudication.

20 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff has satisfied the requirements of Rule 23(b)(3).
21 Accordingly, the Court GRANTS preliminary certification of the proposed class for the purposes
22 of the proposed settlement. The Court, however, may review this finding at the final approval 23 hearing.

24 II. The Settlement

25 Rule 23(e) requires the court to determine whether a proposed settlement is 26 "fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable." Staton, 327 F.3d at 959 (quoting Hanlon, 150 27 F.3d at 1026). To make this determination, the court must consider a number of factors, including:
28

(1) the strength of plaintiff's case; (2) "the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation;" (3) "the risk of maintaining class action status throughout the trial;" (4) the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed, and the stage of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement. See id. (citations omitted). In addition, the settlement may not be the product of collusion among the negotiating parties. In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 955 F.2d 1268, 1290 (9th Cir. 1992)).

Given that some of these factors cannot be fully assessed until the Court conducts the final approval hearing, "a full fairness analysis is unnecessary at this stage." See Alberto v. GMRI, Inc., 252 F.R.D. 652, 665 (E.D. Cal. 2008) (citation omitted). Rather, at the preliminary approval stage, the Court need only review the parties' proposed settlement to determine whether it is within the permissible "range of possible judicial approval" and thus, whether the notice to the class and the scheduling of the formal fairness hearing is appropriate. See 4 WILLIAM B. RUBENSTEIN ET AL., NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS § 11:25 (4th ed. 2002) (citations omitted); see also Wright, 259 F.R.D. at 472 (citation omitted); Alberto, 252 F.R.D. at 666 (citation omitted).

After reviewing the settlement for overall fairness according to the above factors from Hanlon, the Court finds that preliminary approval is appropriate. Plaintiff may have a meritorious case, but GC Services has represented that it will vigorously contest Plaintiff's claims. [Doc. No. 54 at 8.] The disputed factual and legal issues would be complex and costly to resolve at trial. In addition, Plaintiff notes that settlement of the case at this time would be beneficial because a case pending before the California Supreme Court has the potential to change the analysis of the class's meal and rest break claims. [Id.] See Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Sup. Ct., 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 688 (Cal. 2008). Therefore, it is reasonable to resolve the litigation through a class settlement at this early stage.

The proposed settlement is the result of six months of negotiation between counsel for the parties, who both have experience in employment class action litigation. [Doc. No. 54 at 7-8;

1 Class Settlement §§ 3.3-3.5.] The parties have conducted significant discovery and analysis of 2 data, including reviewing and analyzing the time entry data for the class members in order to 3 estimate a fair and reasonable recovery for them. [Doc. No. 54-2, Lindner Decl. ¶¶ 2-3.] In 4 addition, there is no evidence that the settlement, the award of attorneys' fees or the enhancement
 5 award for Plaintiff was the result of collusion between the parties.

6 Finally, the plan for distributing the settlement appears sufficiently fair for conditional
 7 approval, although a further showing will be needed for final approval. The amount of payment
 8 received by each class member will be calculated by determining the pro rata share of the funds 9 based on each class member's amount of weeks worked within the relevant time period, but the 10 amount for each class member will be no less than $50. [Id. § 6.7.2.] Further, at this stage, the 11 request of 30% of the total settlement fund for attorneys' fees appears to be reasonable as it is 12 within the range of acceptable attorney's fees in Ninth Circuit cases. See Vasquez v. Coast Valley
 13 Roofing, Inc., 266 F.R.D. 482, 491 (E.D. Cal. 2010) (noting that "[t]he typical range of acceptable
 14 attorneys' fees in the Ninth Circuit is 20% to 33 1/3% of the total settlement value, with 25%
 15 considered the benchmark"). Also, the $3,000 enhancement award—which represents 16 approximately 0.3% of the total settlement fund—to Plaintiff appears to be reasonable in light of 17 her efforts and involvement in this litigation. [See Doc. No. 54-2, Lindner Decl. ¶ 5.] See In re 18 Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 457, 463 (9th Cir. 2000) (approving incentive award of 19 $5,000 to two plaintiff representatives of 5,400 potential class members in $1.75 million 20 settlement, where incentive payment constituted only 0.57% of the settlement fund).

21 For the foregoing reasons, the Court GRANTS preliminary approval of the proposed class
 22 settlement. The Court, however, reserves judgment on the reasonableness of the attorneys' fees 23 for the final approval hearing.

24 III. Appointing Class Counsel

25 Traditionally, the choice of counsel has been left to the parties, "whether they sue in their 26 individual capacities or as class representatives." In re Cavanaugh, 306 F.3d 726, 734 (9th Cir.
 27 2002) (citation omitted). In determining whether Plaintiff's counsel is adequate, a court must consider “(i) the work counsel has done in identifying or investigating potential claims in the action; (ii) counsel’s experience in handling class actions, other complex litigation, and the types of claims asserted in the action; (iii) counsel’s knowledge of the applicable law; and (iv) the resources that counsel will commit to representing the class.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(g)(1)(A). In the present case, as already noted, Plaintiff’s counsel has extensive experience in employment class actions. [See Doc. No. 26-3, Lindner Decl. Ex. J; Doc. No. 26-5, Potashnick Decl. ¶¶ 4-8, Ex. A; Doc. No. 57, Taylor Decl. ¶¶ 2-4, Exs. A-B; Doc. No. 58, Jacobs Decl. ¶¶ 1-11.] Accordingly, because Plaintiff’s counsel appears to be competent to represent the class, the Court GRANTS Plaintiff’s motion to appoint the law firms Stueve Siegel Hanson LLP; Weinhaus & Potashnick; Cochran, Cherry, Givens, Smith, Lane and Taylor; and Jacobs Law Office as class counsel.
 28

IV. Approving Class Notice

The class notice must be “reasonably calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an opportunity to present their objections.” See Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950). In addition, the class notice must satisfy the content requirements of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(c)(2)(B), which provides that the notice must clearly and concisely state in plain, easily understood language:

(i) the nature of the action; (ii) the definition of the class certified; (iii) the class claims, issues, or defenses; (iv) that a class member may enter an appearance through an attorney if the member so desires; (v) that the court will exclude from the class any member who requests exclusion; (vi) the time and manner for requesting exclusion; and (vii) the binding effect of a class judgment on members under Rule 23(c)(3).

A. Content of the notice

In the present case, the content of the proposed notice is adequate. It provides: (1) a description of the lawsuit; (2) a description of the settlement class and the class claims; (3) a statement that class members may appear through an attorney; (4) a statement that class members have the ability to be excluded from the settlement and instructions on how to request exclusion; and (5) a description of the effect on class members if the Court approves the class settlement.

[See generally Class Settlement Ex. A.]

1            B.      Method of Notice

2            The proposed method of notice is reasonable. All potential class members will be mailed
 3 notice of the settlement, using information from GC Services' records within 14 business days of 4 this Order. [Class Settlement § 7.2.1.] In addition, the claims administrator will check with the 5 U.S. Postal Service National Change of Address Database and update any addresses with any new 6 information found regarding the location of class members. [Id. §§ 7.2.1-7.2.3.] Moreover, the 7 claims administrator will run a skip-trace for class members listed as former employees in GC
 8 Services' records who have not, after 30 days, returned a claim form or otherwise contacted the 9 claims administrator. [Id. § 7.2.4.] Class members have 45 calendar days after the mailing of the 10 notices to file objection or to opt out of the settlement. [Id. §§ 7.2.7, 7.2.9.] Class members have 11 60 calendar days after the mailing of the notices to submit completed claim forms. [Id. § 7.2.6.]

12            After review of the proposed notice and settlement agreement, the Court finds that the 13 notice is adequate and sufficient to inform the class members of their rights. Accordingly, the 14 Court approves the form and manner of giving notice of the proposed settlement.
